Children Missing in Education Policy

In Children Missing Education - Statutory Guidance for Local Authorities (2016), children missing education are defined as those who are not on a school roll or receiving suitable education otherwise than at school. Those who are regularly absent or have missed 10 school days or more without permission may be at risk of becoming 'children missing education'.

There will not always be a safeguarding concern for children and young people who are missing education. Most children and young people are moving schools supported by their parents/carers, schools and local authority admissions services. A smaller number, however, are at risk of dropping out or disengaging from education and, being out of school, they are at risk of exploitation, going missing and significant harm.

Risks

These 'missing' children can be vulnerable; it is essential that all services work together to identify and re-engage these children back into appropriate education provision as quickly as possible. It is important to establish, at the earliest possible stage, the reasons for the child being missing.

Possible reasons that should be considered include:

- Failure to start appropriate provision and never enter the system;
- Stopped attending, due to illegal exclusion or withdrawal by parent/carers;
- Failure to complete a transition between schools;
- Children from refugee and asylum -seeking families;
- Children from families who are highly mobile;
- Children at risk of a forced marriage;
- Children experiencing abuse and neglect.
- Children supervised by the Youth Justice System. Children who remain disengaged from education are potentially exposed to higher degrees of risk such as anti-social behaviour and/or sexual exploitation.

Families moving between local authority areas can sometimes lead to a child becoming 'lost' in the system and consequently missing education. When a child has moved, local authorities should check with other local authorities, either regionally or nationally, and share information to ascertain where the child is living. Once the location of the child is established, the relevant local authority must ensure that the child is receiving an education either by attending a school or otherwise.

Recognition

Schools

As a result of daily registration, schools are particularly well placed to notice when a child has gone missing. If a member of school becomes aware that a child may have run away or gone missing, they should try to establish with the parents/carers, what has happened. If this is not possible, or the child is missing, the designated safeguarding teacher/advisor should, together with the class teacher, assess the child's vulnerability. Enquiries into the circumstances surrounding a child who is missing from school can be effectively supported by schools adopting an admissions procedure which requires a parent/carer to provide documentary evidence of their own and the child's identity, their status in the UK, and the address at which they are residing. Schools should ensure that a family's contact details are regularly updated. These checks, however, should not become delaying factors in the admissions process. In the circumstances of a child going missing who is not known to any other agencies, the Attendance Team should inform the Children Missing Education (CME) Officer of any child who has not attended for 10 consecutive school days without provision of reasonable explanation. Prior to doing so, the school should have made enquiries to ascertain whether the child is still residing at the home address and is not attending or whether the child is missing.

Other Agencies

Where any agency in contact with children and families believes that a child is not on the roll of a school or receiving education otherwise, this information should be passed to the CME Officer with any details they have of the child in question.

Response

From the first day that a child does not attend school and there is no explanation or authorisation of the absence, the following steps should be taken:

- A text message will be sent by the Attendance Team on or before 9:30 a.m. to try and establish the whereabouts of the child.
- The child's Head of Year or a member of the Attendance Team will contact the parents/carers (person with parental responsibility for the child) by telephone to seek reassurance that the child is safe at home and the reason for absence;
- The outcome of the contact should be assessed and if there are any concerns a consultation with the school's Designated Safeguarding Lead should take place to consider the child's vulnerability. In the following circumstances a referral to children's social care and /or the police should always be made promptly:
 - The child may be the victim of a crime;
 - The child is subject of a Child Protection plan;
 - The child is subject of section 47 enquiries;
 - The child is looked after;

There is a known person posing a risk to children in the household or in contact with the household; The answers to further questions could assist a judgement whether or not to inform children's social care and the police

- In which age range is the child?
- Is this very sudden and unexpected behaviour?

- Have there been any past concerns about the child associating with significantly older young people or adults?
- Was there a significant incident prior to the child's unexplained absence?
- Has the child been a victim of bullying?
- Are there health reasons to believe that the child is at risk? e.g. Does the child need essential medication or health care?
- Was the child noted to be depressed prior to their unexplained absence?
- Are there religious or cultural reasons to believe that the child is at risk? e.g. Rites of passage, female genital mutilation or forced marriage planned for the child?
- Has the child a disability and/or special educational needs?
- Have there been past concerns about this child and family which together with the sudden disappearance are worrying? e.g. Is there any known history of drug or alcohol dependency within the family? Is there any known history of domestic violence? Is there concern about the parent/carer's ability to protect the child from harm? Is there any concern about extremist views?

Children missing from education but not missing from home

The length of time that a child remains out of school could, of itself, be an alerting factor of risk of harm to the child. A judgement as to timeliness is required in respect of the referral to the local authority. This timeliness should be on a case by case basis.

In exceptional circumstances, a leave of absence can be authorised by the head teacher, at which point a return date is set. In these cases, the timeline for enquiries starts from when the child does not attend school on the expected return date, not from the day the authorised leave started.

Notifications and Actions for Children Missing from Education where there are Safeguarding Concerns

If the answers to any of the points set out in the previous section indicate that there are concerns about the child's safety then a referral should be made to Children's Social Care and the Police on day one.

The school should work in collaboration with children's social care and the police and the Designated Safeguarding Lead should participate in any strategy discussions, section 47 enquiries and child protection conferences which may arise.

Reasonable enquiry

If the judgement reached on day one is that there is no reason to believe that the child is suffering, or likely to suffer, significant harm, then the school should delay making a referral to allow them to make further reasonable enquiries. Reasonable enquiries include staff checking with all members of staff with whom the child may have had contact, with the pupil's friends and their parents, siblings and known relatives at school, and others. The speed at which these reasonable enquiries are made will depend upon any known or concerning factors that may arise through the enquiry process.

School staff should also make telephone calls to any numbers held on record or identified and send a letter to the last known address. Home visits can be made by school based staff in consultation with local authority staff.

Transfer of information when a pupil changes school

The Education (Pupil Information) (England) Regulations 2000 (SI 2000/297) (as amended by SI 2001/1212 and SI 2002/1680) governs the transfer of information between schools.

- Regulation 10(3) states that 'The headteacher of the pupil's old school shall send the information within fifteen school days of the pupil's ceasing to be registered at the school'. However
- Regulation 10 (4) states that 'This regulation does not apply where it is not reasonably practicable for the headteacher of the old school to ascertain the pupil's new school or where the pupil was registered at his old school for less than four weeks'.

If the CME Officer or any other agency becomes aware the child has moved to another school the service should ensure all relevant agencies are informed so that arrangements can be made to forward records from the previous school. Changes to the Children Missing Education statutory regulations in September 2016 require that all schools must now report all starters and leavers to the local authority. This includes starters, no shows, and leavers that are outside of normal transition rounds, following the local authority's processes.

School Procedure

(All information has been taken from Guidance to identifying children missing from education – Together for Children)

Should a child leave a Sunderland school without the school being advised (by the parent/carer) of the name and location of a new school, the school should immediately notify the EHAAT. For more information contact our Early Help Service on 0191 561 4127 or email EHAAT@togetherforchildren.org.uk.

Should the child be the subject of a Child Protection Plan or a Child In Need plan, the school should also notify the named social workers.

Where child protection concerns arise as a result of the withdrawal from school, the school should contact ICRT on 0191 561 7007.

As CME may raise potential safeguarding issues: If schools believe a child or family has gone missing they should follow the locating pupils missing procedures (Appendix 2).

Schools should not remove any child from their roll without completing form CME1 to ensure that all children removed from the school register are, in accordance with Regulation 8(h)(iii) of the Education (Pupil Registration) Regulations 2006.

EHAAT monitors pupils who have been removed from roll on a monthly basis to:

- Ensure that the legislation on this matter is followed and to,
- Ensure that no pupil is allowed to go missing from education.

EHAAT tracks pupils removed from roll, to ensure that they are admitted to another education provision, either within Sunderland or in another education provision, either within Sunderland or in another city.

The SEN Team will track pupils with a Statement of Special Educational Needs (SEN) who are not in a provision.

Please see the attached flow chart for children missing from education procedures which identifies that Schools should refer to Attendance completing the CME form by the latest at the tenth consecutive day of missing following school efforts to locate the child.

For school attendance queries where the whereabouts of the child are known and the child is on a school roll but failing to attend, referrals should be made in line with the criteria which is contained within the Responsibility for Attendance in Primary/Secondary Schools.
